

LETTER FROM OUR PASTOR

On May 22nd, 2017, a small group of 30 people (strangers really) gathered together in the living room of some new friends my wife and I had only known for a couple months, at the very most.

I remember exactly what I said that day. Channeling my inner Kevin Costner, I told this small group of new friends what I believed to be true of the adventure ahead of us, "If you build it, they will come."

At that time, I was really only talking about building an idea. I was talking about giving life to a community and a vision of how God could use that community to create a different kind of church and to change the lives of everyone we would encounter.

Four years later, God has blessed that vision and multiplied that community. Now I find myself right back where I began— inspired by the same seven words I spoke in 2017.

If you build it, they will come.

But now, it's not just an idea we are building. It's a home.

God has indeed blessed our vision and multiplied our community. And now is the time for Midcurrent to have a place of its very own.

A place to ...

- Open our doors for more than one day a week.
- Encourage, equip, and empower the next generation.
- Build up families and strengthen marriages.
- Grow spiritually.
- Develop friendship, support, and accountability.
- Belong.

And perhaps most of all, a place for real people and real God to meet.

And now, more than ever, we have the opportunity to build that very place.

We'd love to invite you to help us build it and RAISE 'EM UP!

Sincerely,
